Newfoundland and Labrador is one of the most spectacular whale watching places in the world. 22 species of whales, including the minke, sperm, humpback, blue, orca, and the world's largest population of humpbacks, feed on capelin, krill and squid along the coast. Between May and September, these whales can be seen breaching the surface of the water and playing along our shores. Catching a single glimpse of these huge and majestic mammals is an exciting and awesome experience whether it's from the rail of a boat tour, the side of your sea kayak or hiking a seaside trail on land.

Along the way, you'll see caves, waterfalls, and the majesty of the Newfoundland and Labrador coastline including icebergs, seabirds, and other wildlife.

Humpback Whale Breaching

Icebergs, Whales and Birds – the Triple Play!

For tourists keen on viewing whales and seabirds, it should be noted that they migrate north in the late spring and early summer – and can often be plentiful through to early fall. The opposing southerly

Hiking & Walking

Set against a backdrop of natural wonder, there's something about Newfoundland and Labrador that nurtures your mind, body, and soul. Here you'll find 29,000 km of pristine coastline, dotted with beaches, sea stacks, and more than 200 hiking and walking trails, including historic footpaths between abandoned fishing communities. Along the way, witness millions of seabirds, thousands of whales, and hundreds of freshly carved icebergs. And keep an eye out for moose and boreal songbirds as you connect with the unspoiled wilderness and nature, and with the people who've walked these trails for centuries.

Hiking in the National Parks

Terra Nova National Park is home to more than 50 kilometres of trails. Ranging from half-hour strolls to multi-day hikes, the park offers something for every level of interest and ability. Try the Coastal Trail between the Visitor Centre and the main campground at Newman Sound.

A Quick Reference Guide to your TDMS Business Listing

Your free business listing appears in the Traveller's Guide, in the Travel Guide app, and on NewfoundlandLabrador.com. For many of your potential customers, it's the first thing they will see about your business, so it's important to make a great first impression. Make sure to put yourself in the customer's shoes. Highlight the things that you'd want to know when planning a trip, and be sure to include things that make your business stand out from the crowd.

Take full advantage of the space provided under all the elements of your business listing. In addition to your business name and location, include social media and TripAdvisor links, accurate map coordinates, list the amenities that will help sell your business, and take time to write your descriptions so they will appeal to potential visitors.

Writing Your Descriptions

Short Description (200 characters)

Where it appears:

- Traveller's Guide
- Traveller's Guide app
- Travel Directory on NewfoundlandLabrador.com

This description will help form a traveller's initial impression of your business. You're limited to 200 characters, which is just a couple of sentences, so be sure to make them count. Focus on what makes your business unique and appealing. Include the most attractive and interesting highlights to encourage travellers to contact you, or click on your listing. Don't just list things you offer or that are nearby (that can go in Amenities). Here, you should include the top one or two things that will make someone excited to book with you.

Long Description (500 characters)

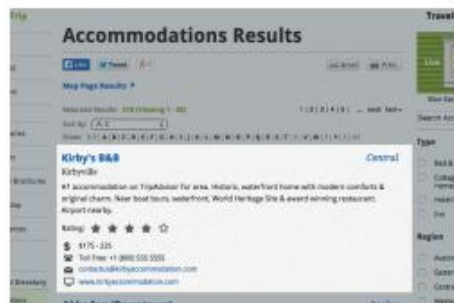

Where it appears:

- Business listing page on NewfoundlandLabrador.com
- May be excerpted in search results (Google, Bing, etc.)

The long description allows you to expand on the things that make your business an interesting and exciting place to visit. In addition to the highlights included in your short description, you should include any recent awards, information about the surrounding area, how long you've been in business, and any other selling features. If there's a popular tourist attraction nearby, like a museum, hiking trail, or the ocean, include it here. You may want to include a quick note about distance from an airport or ferry, but leave the details for the map and contact information.

When potential visitors search the internet using keywords related to your business, you want your business listing page on NewfoundlandLabrador.com to appear. The search engine may include the first few lines from the long description, so make sure those are similar to the short description, highlighting the most important features. Because the listing page will be the link they click, they won't see the short description at all, so don't leave anything important out of the long one.

Below are some sample descriptions for inspiration.

Accommodations

Short Description: #1 accommodation on TripAdvisor for area. Historic, waterfront home with modern comforts & original charm. Near boat tours, World Heritage Site & award-winning restaurant. Airport nearby.

Long Description: Renovated historic home with original charm and an ocean view, we are the top accommodation on TripAdvisor for Kirbyville. Conveniently located for exploring the coastline. Visit coastal communities & trails, go whale and iceberg watching, drop by the specialty stores and waterfront. Spend the day at the nearby World Heritage site and then dine at the 2014 EnRoute magazine's best restaurant. The airport is only 45 minutes away.

Tours

Short Description: See a triple treat of icebergs, whales, and seabirds on a 2-hour tour aboard the 30-passenger Seaborne Adventure as it cruises the bay with experienced guides. Our vessel has a washroom and heated cabin.

Long Description: The coast of Newfoundland and Labrador is one of the few places where you can see whales, icebergs, and seabirds at the same time. Take a 2-hour tour of the bay on the Seaborne Adventure. Humpbacks and minke are the whales most often seen. The humpbacks are as curious about us as we are about them, and they often entertain with breaches and blows. The icebergs are 10,000-year-old chunks of ice from Greenland's glaciers. And the seabirds are among the 35 million that nest here every year.

Shops and Galleries

Short Description: All of our crafts are handmade by local artisans and craftspeople. We have everything from clothing to art to pottery to jam, and most use traditional motifs and methods specific to this area.

Long Description: Tradition never goes out of fashion. Drop by and see our collection of mittens and scarves knit by local women following traditional patterns handed down from their grandmothers. The wool is carded from local sheep and spun using an old-fashioned foot loom. Our jams are made from berries picked right here along the pristine coastline. The artwork is inspired by local scenery, and the clay for the pots is collected from a secret location just up the coast.

Events

Short Description: Celebrate at a garden party that's been held the first Sunday in August for over 100 years. Play games, listen to traditional music, and enjoy the turkey tea served by members of the Heritage Society.

Long Description: Queen Victoria was still on the throne when Kirbytown held its first garden party, and it's been going strong ever since. We value our heritage and salute our ancestors. Why, even some of the tunes played at that first garden party can be heard today, and some of the Heritage Society members will dress in old-fashioned outfits for the occasion. There will be games of chance and old-time children's games in Murphy's Meadow. The traditional turkey tea will be served at 4pm.

Campgrounds

Short Description: Wake up in the morning to songbirds, walk the trail to the falls, and climb Tor Hill for a view of the countryside. There's a horseshoe tournament every day, and each campsite overlooks the pond.

Long Description: Swyers Pond has been welcoming campers for 50 years, and over that time we've added amenities to make your stay more comfortable and relaxing. This is a great place for families to experience nature at its finest – and have some fun, too. Each campsite is secluded and all are connected by the central walking trail. Our water park is 5-minutes walk from the nearest campsite, ensuring fun and quiet are separated. Tip: reserve your picnic spot and your basket when you register.

Whale Watching

Newfoundland and Labrador is one of the most spectacular whale watching places in the world. 22 species of whales, including the minke, sperm, humpback, blue, orca, and the world's largest population of humpbacks, feed on capelin, krill and squid along the coast. Between May and September, these whales can be seen breaching the surface of the water and playing along our shores. Catching a single glimpse of these huge and majestic mammals is an exciting and awesome experience whether it's from the rail of a boat tour, the side of your sea kayak or hiking a seaside trail on land.

Along the way, you'll see caves, waterfalls, and the majesty of the Newfoundland and Labrador coastline including icebergs, seabirds, and other wildlife.

Newfoundland & Labrador

The Newfoundland and Labrador tourism agency has reloaded the special offers page on its website.

Among the offers is a two-night stay for two at the Hillside Bed & Breakfast in Twillingate, a small island in Central Newfoundland on the edge of what is known as Iceberg Alley, for $299. The package, called A Path Through Time, includes accommodations in the three-bedroom, restored 140-year-old home, breakfasts both mornings, admission to the Twillingate Museum, where you are given a copy of a book by Dr. Robert Eeke, one of the town's first doctors, box-lunches from the Crows Nest Café in Crow Head, admission to the Beothuk Interpretation Centre, where guests learn about the Aboriginal people of Boyd's Cove. You also get two season passes to any historic site in the province. For more information on the Hillside B&B, visit bbc.canada.com/nfld/tlle/tlle.

If you want more water in your trip, you could book the Badge Chute Whitewater Rafting Adventure in Grand Falls/Windsor and located between Terra Nova National Park and Gros Morne National Park, starting at $169 per person. For that price, you get a day of guided rafting on the Exploits River, the longest and largest river in Newfoundland, lunch and a night in a riverside chalet that sleeps up to four. Two-night packages are available for $225 per person (the prices are based on groups of four booking the packages, but the chalets are available for groups of less than four. The price for a chalet rental for one night is $289 and individuals can book a day of rafting for $169). For more information about this trip, visit rafting.newfoundland.com.

For more ideas for trips to the province affectionately known as the Rock, visit newfoundlandlabrador.com/PlanYourTrip/SpecialOffers.

Tourism

In 2009, the Tourism Industry and the Department of Business, Tourism, Culture and Rural Development launched its Vision for Tourism. Uncommon Potential - A Vision for Newfoundland and Labrador Tourism  (11.6 MB).

The Newfoundland and Labrador Tourism Vision 2020 (Vision 2020) provides a blueprint for extraordinary growth. It addresses the real and perceptual barriers facing our industry with innovative strategies and actions. And it challenges us to come together as entrepreneurs, industry partners, and Government to grow our industry to new heights: to double the annual tourism revenue in Newfoundland and Labrador by 2020.

To achieve this vision, the Tourism Branch works with entrepreneurs and industry partners to market Newfoundland and Labrador as a top-of-mind travel destination and works with the tourism industry to develop high-quality, competitive products, facilities and services and a professional tourism industry.
